Postpartum Depression and Anxiety

Postpartum depression is a mood disorder that can affect women after childbirth. Mothers with postpartum depression experience feelings of extreme sadness, anxiety, and exhaustion that may make it difficult for them to complete daily care activities for themselves or for others.

The symptoms of postpartum depression may include:

- A low or sad mood
- Trouble sleeping when your baby sleeps (more than the lack of sleep new moms usually get!)
- Feeling numb or disconnected from your baby
- Having scary or negative thoughts about the baby, like thinking someone will take your baby away or hurt your baby
- Worrying that you will hurt the baby or yourself
- Feeling guilty about not being a good mom, or ashamed that you cannot care for your baby

Depression is common. If you are worried about the way you have been feeling, it important to speak with a doctor and tell him or her about your concerns. Your doctor can help figure out whether you have depression or not, and he or she can help find the best treatment for you.

Many women feel this way
You are not alone

There are treatments to help you feel better
Talk to your doctor so you can feel like yourself again

Go to the closest emergency room if you are worried about harming yourself or your baby.
